

Lando Norris

Lando Norris (/ˈlændoʊ/; born 13 November 1999) is a British racing driver who competes in Formula One for McLaren. Norris was runner-up in the Formula One World Drivers' Championship in 2024 with McLaren, and has won seven Grands Prix across seven seasons.

Born in Bristol and raised in Glastonbury to an English father and Belgian mother, Norris began competitive kart racing aged seven. After a successful karting career—culminating in his victory at the direct-drive Karting World Championship in 2014—Norris graduated to junior formulae. He won his first title at the 2015 MSA Formula Championship with Carlin. He then won the Toyota Racing Series, Formula Renault Eurocup, and Formula Renault NEC in 2016, receiving the Autosport BRDC Award that year. Norris won the FIA Formula 3 European Championship in 2017, and finished runner-up to George Russell in the FIA Formula 2 Championship in 2018, both with Carlin.

A member of the McLaren Young Driver Programme since 2017, Norris joined McLaren in 2019 to partner Carlos Sainz Jr., making his Formula One debut at the Australian Grand Prix. He achieved his maiden podium finish and fastest lap at the season-opening Austrian Grand Prix in 2020, before achieving his maiden pole position at the Russian Grand Prix in 2021, amongst several further podiums. Following another podium at the Emilia Romagna Grand Prix in 2022, Norris took seven podiums across his 2023 campaign. In 2024, Norris took his maiden career win at the Miami Grand Prix, repeating this feat in the Netherlands, Singapore, and Abu Dhabi as he finished runner-up to Max Verstappen in the World Drivers' Championship. He has taken three further victories in 2025.

As of the 2025 British Grand Prix, Norris has achieved seven race wins, 12 pole positions, 17 fastest laps, and 35 podiums in Formula One. Norris is contracted to remain at McLaren until at least the end of the 2027 season.^[2]

Early and personal life

Lando Norris was born on 13 November 1999 in Bristol, England.^[3] His father Adam Norris is a retired pensions manager,^[4] and is one of Bristol's wealthiest people as well as the 501st-richest person in the country (as of 2018).^[5] His mother Cisca (née Wauman) is from the Flanders region of Belgium.^[6] He has three siblings - two younger sisters, and an older brother Oliver, who was also involved in karting on a competitive level until 2014.^{[7][8]} Norris holds both British and Belgian citizenship,^[9] and speaks a small amount of Flemish Dutch.^{[7][10]} In his early childhood, Norris tried horse riding, then quad biking and motorcycle riding before moving into karting after his father took him to watch the national British Karting Championships at age seven.^[11] Norris was educated at Millfield School in Street, Somerset. He left school without taking his GCSEs,^[12] but studied physics and mathematics with a full-time personal tutor.^[13] He cites Valentino Rossi as an inspiration for his racing career.^[14] At the start of his F1 career he initially resided in Woking near the McLaren Technology Centre,^[15] but later moved to Monaco in 2022, for financial reasons.^[16]

Between August 2021 and September 2022, Norris dated Portuguese model Luísa Oliveira.^[17] Norris has stated that he and Oliveira were subjected to abuse and death threats from online trolls.^{[18][19][20]}

Karting

Norris started his racing career at the age of seven when he claimed pole position at his first national event. In 2013, Norris competed in KF-Junior class, winning the CIK-FIA European Championship and the CIK-FIA International Super Cup,^{[21][22]} as well as the WSK Euro Series.^[23] The following year he won the CIK-FIA World Championship in KF class with Ricky Flynn Motorsport, making him the youngest karting world champion in that category.^[24]

IMSA

Lando Norris made a single appearance in the IMSA SportsCar Championship during the 2018 season, competing in the prestigious Rolex 24 at Daytona with United Autosports. Driving the Ligier JS P217 in the Prototype (P) class, powered by a Gibson GK428 4.2L V8 engine, Norris shared the car with co-drivers Phil Hanson and Fernando Alonso. Despite showing competitive pace at times and briefly leading the race for 8 laps, the team encountered several mechanical issues, including brake problems and a lengthy stop for repairs, which ultimately hampered their performance. They finished 38th overall and 20th in class, completing 751 laps—well behind the leaders. Due to only participating in this single event and not scoring any championship points, Norris was classified 58th in the final standings.^[25]

Formula 4

Norris racing for Mücke Motorsport in Formula 4 in 2015

For 2015, Norris signed with Carlin Motorsport to drive in the newly established MSA Formula Championship (now known as the F4 British Championship). Norris took eight wins, ten pole positions, and fourteen total podiums to win the championship ahead of Ricky Collard and Colton Herta. He also made occasional appearances in the ADAC and Italian Formula 4 championships with Mücke Motorsport where he claimed six podiums from eight starts in the former.^{[24][26]}

Formula Three and Formula Renault

In January 2016, Norris travelled to New Zealand to compete in the Toyota Racing Series with the M2 Competition team. He achieved six race wins, including the New Zealand Grand Prix, and won the championship ahead of Jehan Daruvala. Norris then returned to Europe to race in the Formula Renault 2.0 category with Josef Kaufmann Racing, competing in both the Eurocup and Northern European Cup. He won both series, taking eleven race wins in total and recording ten consecutive pole positions in the latter.^{[27][28]} At the same time, Norris embarked on a part-time campaign in the BRDC British Formula 3 Championship and claimed four wins in eleven races. In October he made a guest appearance in the final round of the European Formula 3 Championship at the Hockenheimring in preparation for the Macau Grand Prix in November. Norris placed ninth in qualifying in Macau but was eliminated from the qualification race after crashing on the first lap. In the main race, he progressed from 27th on the grid to finish 11th.^[26]

Norris at Silverstone during the 2017 Formula 3 European Championship

Norris raced full-time with Carlin in the 2017 European Formula 3 Championship,^[29] and faced competition from Joel Eriksson, Maximilian Günther and Callum Iott for the championship title. Norris finished on the podium in twenty of the thirty races, including nine wins, and recorded eight pole positions. He clinched the title with two races remaining, marking his fifth racing championship title in four years.^[30] In November, Norris made his second appearance at the Macau Grand Prix. He was classified second in qualifying but dropped to seventh in the qualification race. He benefited from an accident between the leaders on the final lap to finish the Grand Prix second behind Dan Ticktum.

Formula 2

The weekend following the Macau Grand Prix, Norris made his FIA Formula 2 debut with Campos Racing, replacing Ralph Boschung for the final round of the 2017 season at the Yas Marina Circuit.^[31] Prior to the season, Norris expressed that "[Charles Leclerc] has done it [in 2017] so if I want to beat or prove I'm just as a good [sic] then I'm going to have to win [the title as a rookie]", adding that he didn't think there was "any point in going for second or third".^[32]

Norris competed full-time in the 2018 FIA Formula 2 Championship, racing alongside Sérgio Sette Câmara at Carlin. Norris won the opening race at the Bahrain International Circuit from pole position, however, this would prove to be his only race victory of the season. He scored consistent points and podium finishes to hold the lead of the championship until the sixth round at the Red Bull Ring, when George Russell passed him in the standings. Norris retired from both races at the eleventh round at Sochi Autodrom, ruling him out of championship contention and dropping him to third place in the standings behind Alex Albon, although he recovered to second place after the final round in Abu Dhabi.^[33]

Formula One career

In February 2017, Norris joined the McLaren Driver Development Programme.^[34] Following the announcement, Zak Brown said that Norris was "a fabulous prospect" who deserved the award.^[35] Later that year, Norris tested for McLaren in a scheduled mid-season test. He set the second fastest lap in the second day of testing at the Hungaroring.^[36] In late 2017, Norris became the official McLaren test and reserve driver for the 2018 season.^[37] Norris participated in his first official practice session at the Belgian Grand Prix, recording 26 laps.^[38] Norris drove in six further practice sessions during the year.

McLaren (2019–present)

2019: Rookie season

Norris was contracted to drive for McLaren for the 2019 Formula One World Championship, partnering Carlos Sainz Jr.^[39] He qualified eighth on his debut at the Australian Grand Prix and finished the race in twelfth place. He scored his first Formula One points by finishing sixth at the following race, the Bahrain Grand Prix.^[40] The Chinese Grand Prix was the first of Norris' retirements that season, after damage from a first lap collision with Daniil Kvyat caused him to retire later in the race.^[41] Further retirements came at the Spanish Grand Prix after a collision with Lance Stroll and at the Canadian Grand Prix when a brake fire caused his suspension to fail.^[42]

Norris at the 2019 Chinese Grand Prix

Norris was on course to finish seventh at the French Grand Prix but suffered hydraulic problems late in the race and was eventually classified ninth. This was followed by a sixth-place finish at the Austrian Grand Prix, matching his best result. He was forced to start from the back at the German Grand Prix due to penalties for exceeding the allowed number of engine components for the season. He later retired from the race after a power failure.^[43] At the Belgian Grand Prix, he made his way from eleventh up to fifth in the early stages of the race. He maintained this position and was set to record his best career finish but suffered a power failure on his final lap and was classified eleventh.^[44]

Three consecutive points finishes followed at the Italian, Singapore and Russian Grands Prix. At the Japanese Grand Prix, Norris was running in fifth place before Alex Albon collided with him during an overtake attempt. Norris dropped back after collecting floor damage and eventually finished eleventh. At the next race, the Mexican Grand Prix, he had a wheel fitted incorrectly after pitting from seventh place. He spent almost two minutes in the pits as his mechanics resolved the problem but he was eventually withdrawn from the race.^[45] He ended the season with three consecutive points finishes.^[9]

Norris finished his debut Formula One season eleventh in the drivers' championship with 49 points. Teammate Sainz scored 96 points, however Norris out-qualified Sainz at eleven of the twenty-one races. During his debut year, Norris signed a multi-year contract to stay with McLaren for the 2020 season until 2022.^[46]

2020: Maiden podium

At the season-opening Austrian Grand Prix, Norris qualified in fourth place but was elevated to third after a grid penalty for Lewis Hamilton, the highest grid position of his career at the time and the highest for McLaren since the 2016 Austrian Grand Prix.^[47] In the closing stages of the race, third-placed Hamilton was issued a five-second penalty for causing a collision with Alex Albon. Norris set the fastest lap of the race on the final lap to finish 4.802 seconds behind Hamilton, allowing Norris to claim the first podium finish of his career.^{[48][49]} This made Norris the third youngest podium-finisher in Formula One history.^[50] At the Styrian Grand Prix, Norris qualified sixth but was given a three-place grid penalty for overtaking under yellow flags during practice. He passed three cars in the final two laps of the race to finish fifth, in what he described as "one of the best races of [his] career".^[51]

Norris at the 2020 Tuscan Grand Prix

Six consecutive points finishes came between the British and Tuscan Grands Prix.^[52] Norris collected damage on the opening lap of the Russian Grand Prix and finished the race fifteenth. At the Eifel Grand Prix, he retired from sixth place with power unit failure. During the Portuguese Grand Prix, a collision with Lance Stroll and a puncture resulted in a thirteenth-place finish.^[53] Following this, Norris faced criticism over his remarks that Stroll "doesn't seem to learn"^{[54][55]} and his perceived downplaying of Lewis Hamilton's achievement of most Grand Prix wins, describing it as meaning "nothing to him".^{[56][57]} Subsequently, Norris apologised for his comments about Stroll and also offered a personal apology to Hamilton, stating that his comments were "careless" and that he "[hadn't] shown the respect I should have to certain people".^{[58][59][60]}

At the wet Turkish Grand Prix Norris had what he called "[the] worst start of everyone's career ever".^[61] He started from fourteenth place after a five-place grid penalty for failing to respect yellow flags in qualifying, but recovered to finish eighth and recorded the fastest lap of the race.^[61] Norris finished fourth at the Bahrain Grand Prix and fifth at the season-finale Abu Dhabi Grand Prix,^{[62][63]} which alongside the points scored by teammate Sainz, assisted McLaren in claiming third place in the constructors' championship over Racing Point.^[64] Norris ended the season ninth in the drivers' championship with 97 points, eight points behind Sainz.

2021: Maiden pole position

Norris remained at McLaren for the 2021 season, partnering Daniel Ricciardo as Sainz left the team for Ferrari.^[65] Norris qualified seventh for the season-opening Bahrain Grand Prix and finished the race fourth.^{[66][67][68]} At the following race, the Emilia Romagna Grand Prix, a qualifying time that would have placed him third on the grid was deleted for exceeding track limits, and he started the race seventh. Norris had run in second place before being passed by Lewis Hamilton with three laps remaining. He finished third to claim his second Formula One podium finish.^[69] At the Monaco Grand Prix, Norris started fifth and benefited from Charles Leclerc's failure to start the race and Valtteri Bottas' retirement to claim another podium finish. Norris was issued a grid penalty and started ninth at the Azerbaijan Grand Prix for failing to enter the pits during a red flag period in qualifying, a sanction he criticised as "unfair".^[70] He recovered places in the race to finish fifth, assisted by crashes and mistakes from drivers ahead.

Norris at the 2021 Austrian Grand Prix

Norris equalled his then-highest grid position at the Styrian Grand Prix in Austria, starting third after Bottas was issued with a grid penalty.^[71] He finished fifth for the third consecutive race.^[72] He bettered this qualifying position at the following weekend's Austrian Grand Prix, starting in second place after setting a time 0.048 seconds behind pole-sitter Max Verstappen.^[73] Norris received a penalty during the race after being judged to have forced Sergio Pérez off the track. He finished the race third to claim his third podium of the season.^[74] He set the sixth fastest time in Friday qualifying at the British Grand Prix, before finishing fifth in the new-format sprint qualifying and fourth in the Grand Prix. This result moved him up to third place in the drivers' championship.^[75] He qualified sixth for the Hungarian Grand Prix. He improved to third place by the first corner but was hit from behind by Bottas, causing him to collide with Verstappen. Norris retired from the race two laps later due to heavy damage. At the Italian Grand Prix, Norris finished fourth in sprint qualifying, which became third on the grid for the race as Bottas incurred an engine penalty. Norris finished the race second behind teammate Ricciardo, scoring his fourth podium of the season and securing McLaren's first one-two finish since the 2010 Canadian Grand Prix.^[76]

Norris took his first Formula One pole position in changing weather conditions in qualifying at the Russian Grand Prix. He lost the lead to Carlos Sainz on the first lap before regaining it on lap 13. Norris continued to lead the race with Lewis Hamilton close behind until rain began to fall in the closing laps. Norris decided to stay out on dry-weather tyres while Hamilton pitted for intermediate tyres. The rain soon worsened, allowing Hamilton to overtake and forcing Norris to pit for intermediates. Norris finished seventh, recording the fastest lap of the race. Norris scored points in each of the remaining seven races of the season, but did not finish higher than seventh. He qualified third at the season-ending Abu Dhabi Grand Prix and was the first of the five cars controversially permitted to unlap themselves on the penultimate lap of the race. He criticised the decision to resume the race on the final lap and described it as being done "for the TV".^[77] The result of the final race dropped Norris to sixth in the World Drivers' Championship, 4.5 points behind former teammate Sainz. Nevertheless, Norris achieved his career best result in the standings and scored 160 points to teammate Ricciardo's 115.

In February 2022 Norris signed a contract extension with McLaren that will see him be with team until at least 2025.^[78] He completed all three days of pre-season testing in Bahrain after teammate Ricciardo tested positive for COVID-19 and was unable to attend.^[79]

Both McLaren drivers qualified and finished outside the top ten at the season-opening Bahrain Grand Prix. Norris then scored points at the Saudi Arabian and Australian Grands Prix before achieving the team's only podium finish of the season with third place at the Emilia Romagna Grand Prix.^[80] At the new Miami Grand Prix, the safety car was deployed when Norris was involved in a crash with Pierre Gasly's AlphaTauri.^[81] Despite suffering with tonsillitis, Norris came sixth in the Monaco Grand Prix and secured the fastest lap.^[82] He qualified fifteenth at the Austrian Grand Prix but recovered in the sprint and the race to finish seventh. He then qualified fourth for the Hungarian Grand Prix but was unable to keep Lewis Hamilton and the two Red Bulls behind and finished seventh.

Norris at the 2022 British Grand Prix

Norris started seventeenth at the Belgian Grand Prix with a power unit components penalty and failed to score points, finishing twelfth. He started third at the Italian Grand Prix but again lost out to the Red Bulls and finished seventh. His best result since Emilia Romagna came at the Singapore Grand Prix where he and Ricciardo finished fourth and fifth respectively, briefly promoting McLaren to fourth place above Alpine in the Constructors' Championship. He scored points in the São Paulo Grand Prix sprint, but a gearbox failure eliminated him from the points positions in the race. He ended the season with sixth place and the fastest lap at the Abu Dhabi Grand Prix. He finished seventh in the Drivers' Championship and scored 122 points to Ricciardo's 37.^[83]

2023

Norris remained with McLaren for 2023, partnered by rookie Oscar Piastri who replaced Ricciardo.^[84] At the first race at Bahrain, both McLaren cars experienced reliability issues.^[85] Norris made six pit stops to manage the problem and finished seventeenth and last of the finishing drivers.^[86] He was eliminated in the first qualifying session (Q1) for the first time since 2019 at the Saudi Arabian Grand Prix after hitting the wall.^[87] He received damage from debris on the opening lap and again finished seventeenth.^[88] The Australian Grand Prix saw McLaren score their first points of the season; Piastri finished eighth and Norris improved from thirteenth at the start to sixth at the finish. Another Q1 knockout at the Miami Grand Prix and contact with Nyck de Vries at the start resulted in another finish outside the points. He qualified third at the Spanish Grand Prix but first-lap contact with Lewis Hamilton dropped him to the back. He was demoted from a points finish at the Canadian Grand Prix with a penalty for "unsportsmanlike behaviour" after slowing excessively whilst entering the pit lane to create a gap to Piastri ahead.^[89]

Norris at the 2023 Austrian Grand Prix

McLaren brought upgrades to Norris's MCL60 for the Austrian Grand Prix;^[90] team principal Andrea Stella commented that "pretty much the entire car" had been redesigned.^[91] Norris qualified fourth for the race, third for the sprint and finished fourth in the race. More success came at the British Grand Prix where Norris and Piastri qualified second and third respectively,^[92] a result Norris described as "insane".^[93] He passed Max Verstappen at the first corner and led the race for four laps before Verstappen regained the place. In the later stages of the race, Norris held off Lewis Hamilton to finish second,^[94] making him the first McLaren driver to finish on the podium at Silverstone Circuit since Hamilton in 2010.^[95] He then qualified third and defended from Sergio Pérez to finish second at the Hungarian Grand Prix, the first consecutive podiums of his Formula One career. He accidentally broke Verstappen's first place trophy – a handmade Herend worth around $45,000 – during the podium celebrations; the trophy was later replaced.^{[96][97][98]} He started second at the Dutch Grand Prix but criticised his team's decision not to change tyres during a rain shower; he went on to finish seventh.^[99]

Four consecutive podiums began with the Singapore Grand Prix, where he held off the Mercedes duo of Hamilton and George Russell and finished less than a second behind race winner Carlos Sainz Jr., his former McLaren teammate. Sainz, who had Norris strategically hold up both Mercedes, praised Norris for allowing him to take the victory; his teammate Charles Leclerc had been passed by Hamilton and Russell, who had boxed for fresher mediums, and was thus unable to hold them up.^[100] He qualified third, behind teammate Piastri, at the Japanese Grand Prix, but passed him in the race to finish second. He led much of the United States Grand Prix having qualified second and passed Charles Leclerc at the start, but was ultimately overtaken by Verstappen and Hamilton. Hamilton's post-race disqualification promoted Norris to second place.^[101] Norris failed to set a competitive qualifying time at the Mexico City Grand Prix, starting seventeenth, but recovered to finish the race fifth. At the São Paulo Grand Prix, he claimed sprint race pole position but was overtaken by Verstappen at the first corner and finished second. He also finished second in the main race, having started sixth and gained four places at the start. His only retirement of the season came at the penultimate round, the Las Vegas Grand Prix. He qualified sixteenth and crashed heavily on the third lap. He was taken to hospital for precautionary checks and was discharged the same day.^[102]

Norris scored 205 points in total to Piastri's 97 and placed sixth in the Drivers' Championship, matching his result from 2021. He finished only one point behind fourth place, as Fernando Alonso and Charles Leclerc tied on 206 points.

2024: Maiden win and title challenge

Ahead of the 2024 season, Norris signed a new multi-year contract with McLaren.^[2] He finished sixth at the first race, the Bahrain Grand Prix.^[103] and took his first podium of the season at the Australian Grand Prix, starting and finishing third.^[104] He took the season's first sprint pole at the Chinese Grand Prix.^[105] but dropped positions on the opening lap of the sprint and finished sixth.^[106] For the main race, he qualified fourth, overtook Fernando Alonso and gained on Sergio Pérez in the pits to finish second,^[107] his fifteenth Formula One podium. At the Miami Grand Prix, he retired from the sprint after a first-corner collision with Alonso.^[108] He qualified fifth for the main race and led the race after the drivers ahead had made pit stops. A subsequent safety car allowed Norris to pit and retain his lead, which he held ahead of Verstappen at the restart to claim his maiden Grand Prix victory after 110 races and his 16th podium finish,^[109] tying the record for the most podiums before taking a first win, a record he now shares with Patrick Depailler, Mika Häkkinen, Eddie Irvine and Jean Alesi.^[110]

After Miami, Norris achieved five podiums before the summer break. He scored podiums at Imola, where he was catching Verstappen but did not manage to pass him to win,^[111] Canada, where he briefly led the race but lost out to Verstappen through strategy,^[112] and Spain, where he took pole position but lost out at the start.^[113] Despite coming short of several opportunities, Norris stated he believed himself to be a championship rival to Verstappen after the uproar of his MCL38's overall performance.^[114] Norris failed to score a podium at Monaco, finishing fourth behind teammate Oscar Piastri,^[115] and in Austria, where he sparred with Verstappen before making race-ending contact with him.^[116] Norris achieved further podiums at the British Grand Prix, finishing in third following botched strategy,^[117] and Hungary, where he took pole position but lost out at turn one, giving his teammate Oscar Piastri the lead; after strategy prioritised him first, McLaren invoked team orders on Norris, ordering him to slow down to give Piastri the lead and eventual race win.^[118] Norris finished in sixth at the Belgian Grand Prix, behind Verstappen, but was promoted to fifth following the disqualification of George Russell.^[119]

Following the summer break, Norris achieved pole position at the Dutch Grand Prix. During the race, he lost out to second-placed Verstappen at the start, but he eventually reclaimed first place through DRS. He kept the lead, which he extended to 22 seconds by the chequered flag, to take his second victory; McLaren's first at the Circuit Zandvoort since Niki Lauda's victory in 1985, and the first non-Red Bull or Max Verstappen victory at the venue since its return to the Formula One calendar in 2021.^[120] Norris then took pole position for the Italian race,^[121] marking the first consecutive pole positions of his career and becoming the first McLaren driver to achieve this feat since Lewis Hamilton in 2012. He started the race ahead of Piastri, marking McLaren's first front-row lockout at Monza since 2012.^[122] However, Norris lost out to his teammate, who overtook him at turn four, and would end up finishing in third behind Piastri and race winner Charles Leclerc, though he still achieved the fastest lap on lap 53.^[123] Norris suffered his and McLaren's first Q1 elimination since the 2023 Las Vegas Grand Prix during qualifying for the Azerbaijan Grand Prix.^[124] Norris aborted his lap after a brief yellow flag was shown at sector three; Esteban Ocon had brushed his car against the wall, damaging it. Norris, who was approaching sector three, was forced to lift due to this, forcing him to abandon the lap.^[125] Norris recovered to fourth after passing Verstappen, and the combined results of him and teammate, race winner Piastri, allowed McLaren to take the lead of the Constructors' Championship for the first time since 2014.

Norris (centre) on the podium after winning the 2024 Dutch Grand Prix

Norris took his fifth pole position of the season at the Singapore Grand Prix and set a new qualifying lap time record at the Marina Bay Street Circuit. A dominant display saw him claim his third win by a 20 second margin over Verstappen,^[126] and lead every lap to victory.^[127] At the United States Grand Prix, Norris qualified fourth for the sprint, and finished third. Norris took his sixth pole position for the main race but lost out while battling Verstappen, allowing both Ferraris to take the lead and eventual race win. Norris ended up battling with Verstappen for the final place of the podium, of which Norris was denied after a five-second penalty was awarded for overtaking Verstappen off-track,^[128] and Norris qualified in third for the Mexico City Grand Prix and finished second after capitalising on a mistake for Charles Leclerc.^[129]

Despite winning the São Paulo Grand Prix sprint from second place after Piastri was told to swap positions,^[130] Norris, who started the main race on pole position, his seventh of the season, after being at risk of being knocked out in Q1, violated the procedures regarding aborted starts and then lost position to George Russell; the violation earned him a fine. Following Hülkenberg's assisted recovery, for which he was awarded a disqualification, the virtual safety car came out, and Norris opted to box. Following a red flag thanks to a crash involving Franco Colapinto's remaining Williams and a wall, and Sainz's error soon afterward, Norris lost more positions on the safety car restart, falling down to a lowly seventh. He would stay in seventh, moving up to sixth after Piastri let him through. Verstappen won the race from seventeenth, swinging the championship back towards him.^[131] Ahead of the Las Vegas Grand Prix, Norris appeared to concede that any realistic hopes of taking the drivers' championship away from Verstappen had ended, though insisted his season had still been good.^{[132][133]} Norris also admitted that he had not prepared for a potential Drivers' Championship title bid at the beginning of the 2024 season.^[134] Norris qualified and finished the Las Vegas Grand Prix in sixth place whilst rival Verstappen finished fifth, mathematically ending Norris' title bid with two rounds remaining.^[135] At the Qatar Grand Prix sprint, Norris led every lap from pole until he purposely slowed down approaching the finish line, handing the victory to Piastri as a return of favour for the São Paulo sprint.^[136] Nigel Chiu of Sky Sports compared the move to Michael Schumacher's at the 2002 United States Grand Prix.^[137] He received a 10-second stop-and-go penalty for speeding under yellow flags whilst running second in the race, ultimately finishing in tenth whilst Charles Leclerc of Ferrari who was now Norris's main challenger for the championship runner up spot in the drivers' championship finished the Grand Prix second behind champion Verstappen.^[138] Norris's error and strong Ferrari results in Qatar helped reduce McLaren's lead in the constructors' championship to second placed Ferrari to 21 points heading into the final round of the 2024 season at the Abu Dhabi Grand Prix, and reduced Norris's advantage over Charles Leclerc for second place in the drivers' championship to just eight points heading into the same event.^[139] In Abu Dhabi, Norris took pole and led from lights-to-flag in his fourth win of the season, which secured McLaren's first constructors' title since 1998.^[140]

2025: Title battle vs. Piastri

McLaren entered 2025 as title favourites, with Norris stating he had learned "a lot of lessons" in his bid to become World Drivers' Champion.^[141] He took pole for the season-opening Australian Grand Prix, defending the lead from teammate Oscar Piastri and Max Verstappen in wet conditions to claim victory and the championship lead.^[142] After finishing eighth in the Chinese Grand Prix sprint, he claimed second in the main race behind Piastri.^[143] In Japan, he finished second to Verstappen, who reduced his championship lead to a single point.^[144] Norris increased his championship lead to three points over Piastri with his third-placed finish at the Bahrain Grand Prix, after qualifying sixth—claiming he felt "clueless" in the MCL39—and receiving a penalty for a start infringement.^[145] Norris crashed out of qualifying for the Saudi Arabian Grand Prix, recovering to fourth from tenth and dropping below Piastri in the standings.^[146] Benefitting from a late safety car to pass Piastri with a shortened pit stop, he won the Miami Grand Prix sprint;^[147] he finished second to Piastri in the main race after losing positions in a battle with polesitter Verstappen.^[148] He finished second in Emilia Romagna before winning the Monaco Grand Prix from pole, reducing Piastri's lead to three points.^{[149][150]} He then finished second to Piastri in Spain.^[151] A collision with Piastri in a battle for fourth at the Canadian Grand Prix saw Norris retire from the race, which he apologised and was penalised for;^{[152][153]} he later stated "[he couldn't] afford to make some of the mistakes that [he'd] been making" if he wanted to claim the title.^[154] He cruised to pole by over half a second in Austria,^[155] before holding off Piastri to win.^[156]

Norris (pictured at the Japanese Grand Prix) and McLaren entered 2025 as title favourites.

Other racing

Endurance racing

Norris joined United Autosports for the 2018 24 Hours of Daytona in the IMSA SportsCar Championship, alongside Fernando Alonso and Philip Hanson.^[157] They finished 13th in-class and 38th overall; following the race, Alonso hailed Norris' "impressive speed", further acclaiming his teamwork, preparation and focus.^[158]

Sim racing

Norris competed in sim racing for Team Redline at multiple iRacing events in 2019; he debuted at the Bathurst 12 Special Event—a 12-hour virtual team endurance race—in February, alongside Max Verstappen.^[159] The pair won the Spa 24 Special Event in July.^[160] Norris entered two rounds of the 2020 IndyCar iRacing Challenge for Arrow McLaren, winning the fifth round at the Circuit of the Americas.^[161]

Norris competed in the 2020 24 Hours of Le Mans Virtual with Redline in the LMP2 class alongside Verstappen, as well as esports drivers Atze Kerkhof and Greger Huttu.^[162] After qualifying in fifth, the team were met with a series of technical problems, forcing their retirement overnight. A red flag was called, allowing the team to rejoin 18 laps down and finish 25th in-class.^[163]

Other ventures

Philanthropy

Norris raised over US$12,000 for the COVID-19 Solidarity Response Fund, in support of the World Health Organization, during an online live streaming event on Twitch in March 2020.^[164] He also founded Team Quadrant in 2020, an esports team which also focuses on content creation and apparel.^{[165][166]}

Talking to ITV's This Morning in 2021, Norris confirmed that he had struggled with his mental health in the wake of his Formula One debut, stating that "coming into Formula One at 19, there's [sic] a lot of eyes on you. So, dealing with all these kinds of things, took its toll on me".^[167] He referred supporters to the Mind charity, which Norris has worked extensively with in partnership with McLaren.^{[168][169]}

LN Kart

In September 2021, Norris launched an eponymous kart racing brand known as LN Racing Kart. The manufacturing is supported by the OTK Kart Group, while operations are carried out by Ricky Flynn Motorsport, who Norris won the Karting World Championship with in 2014.^{[170][171]}

A magyarországi futam 1986 óta megszakítások nélkül, idén már 38. Alkalommal került megrendezésre a Hungaroringen! A pilóták közül a legjobbak és a legjobb csapat egy különleges, minden évben egyedi tervezésű és kivitelezésű Herendi serlegvázával és konstruktóri tállal gazdagodhatott. Iparművészeti műremek, hungarikumok, bravútermékek, melyekért a győzelem mámore mellett érdemes volt küzdeni az aszfalton. Ezúttal Max Verstappen (Red Bull) aratott győzelmet a Formula-1-es Magyar Nagydíjon, aminek révén a Red Bull megdöntötte a leghosszabb győzelmi sorozat rekordját. Másodikként Lando Norris (McLaren) szelte át a célvonalat, míg harmadikként Sergio Pérez (Red Bull) végzett. A konstruktóri tálat így a Red Bull Honda csapat nyerte. A diadalt beárnyékolta egy sajnálatos esemény, hiszen az első helyezett Tróféája az ünnepés következtében eltört, de mérhetetlen sajnálatunkon túl, az országimázs részeként a Tróféát pótolni fogjuk, elkészítjük újra, így Verstappen sem marad ép Herendi egyedi Trófea nélkül!
